Travel To State Shows Increase Of 160 Per Cent

Truckee Second in Cars, Tops List in Trucks, Stages Cleared

The number of automobiles entering California last month increased 160 per cent over June, 1945, according to a report by the state department of agriculture. A total of 193,128 vehicles carrying 593,140 passengers were checked in at the board quarantine stations, the department said. This represented an increase of 26 per cent over May.

Truckee was in second place in the volume of incoming vehicles there being 26,445 automobiles, less the trucks and local vehicles and buses, entering the state through here. The cars carried 69,335 passengers.

Yermo was in first place with 32,923 incoming cars while Blythe was third with 21,422 vehicles.

Truckee's station led the state in stages with 699 entering the state here carrying 17,943 passengers. In the number of out of state trucks, Truckee also led with 1,206, the report shows.

Estimating that the number of people leaving the state was approximately the same as those entering, Truckee had 174,556 visitors during the month of June.

At Brockway, 1,708 cars entered the state and at State Line 5,428 were cleared, the report indicates.

Tahoe Telephone Operator Honored With Vail Medal

Medal, Fund Recognizes Oustanding Service Of Employees

Three employees of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company were honored last night for outstanding public service when they were presented with Theodore A. Vail awards at a ceremony attended by over 200 of their fellow workers and friends at the Century Club in Reno.

Miss Eunice E. Duffee, former chief operator in Tahoe City, and James E. Woods, tractor operator for the company, formerly of Reno but now of Stockton, each received a bronze Vail medal and a check for $100. Wilbur V. Bowan, line assigner, of Reno was awarded a certificate of honorable mention.

The awards were made in recognition of the initiative and quick action in rendering aid to victims of a serious automobile accident near Tahoe City last October. Receiving the emergency call at her switchboard, Miss Duffee attempted to summon medical aid and ambulance and upon encountering delay, she immediately dispatched Woods to the scene of the crash. With the assistance of Bowman, Woods rendered first aid and cared for the injured until the ambulance arrived.

The Theodore N. Vail Memorial Fund was established in 1920 as a memorial to a former president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company as a means of recognition for telephone employees who, by unusual acts beyond the ordinary requirements of the job, perpetuate the highest ideals of service to the public.

Funeral Held—

Funeral services were held Thursday at San Jose for Clifford Noddin of Los Gatos. His wife Lois and son Carl survive. He was a brother in law of Mrs. Sam Follett.

Board To Decide On Deputy Here

It is quite evident that Truckee is to have a paid deputy to take care of the increase in crimes in this end of Nevada County but whether he will be a deputy sheriff or a deputy constable is problematical.

Supervisor H. G. Loehr at the meeting of the board of supervisors last week pointed out the need for another county-paid law enforcement officer here and asked that it be a deputy constable. Whether this can be arranged or whether a deputy sheriff will be appointed was not settled.

At the present time, Constable N. F. Dolley is the only county paid officer here, Deputy John Collier being paid by the merchants as a night watchman. Sheriff Carl Tobiassen indicated his cooperation in securing a deputy sheriff for Truckee.

Rains Come, Lighten Forest Fire Danger

Cooling and sorely needed showers are bringing relief to the dry forest area and ended an unusually warm spell in this district. While the showers lessen temporarily the danger of forest fires, it by no means eliminated it and forest users are warned to continue being careful.

Fred White, in charge of the Tahoe Public Camp at Tahoe Park, reports that the Tavern dumping grounds at Bear Trap have been closed to dumping until such time as a water supply can be secured for protection against fires similar to the one which burned for over two weeks there recently.

Forest service patrolmen during the past week have apprehended four persons charged with violating the laws to prevent forest fires and all four were found guilty by Justice of the Peace Evelyn Bliss of Tahoe City and paid fines or forfeited bail. The four were J. P. Hall, Kings Beach, who was fined $25 for an unattended camp fire; W. H. Cohick, Cedar Fat, $25 for placing hot ashes where they would cause a fire; W. T. MacWilliams, Lake Forest, $25 for burning without a permit, and Mrs. B. Caldwell, Illinois, $10 for a camp fire without a permit.

Sun Beams

By WALTER M. BARRETT

It is gratifying to note that with a few isolated exceptions, local businessmen are joining the fight against inflation by holding the price line. In some cases the costs of materials for resale have advanced somewhat and while some of this cost is being absorbed by the local business people, they cannot be expected to operate at the same old prices. Many communities, we understand, have advanced prices alarmingly but we believe the merchants of this region are aware of the danger of inflation and will continue the fight. We also hope that those few isolated cases where disregard for the buying public and future business is apparent will not be used against the majority of businessmen doing all they can to prevent the uptrend.

Despite the showers which have drenched the forests during the past couple of days, Tahoe National Forest officials have issued a warning that danger still exists and warned campers to be particularly careful of fires. There are far more people frequenting the forests this year than ever and the danger of a conflagration is many times increased. It was startling to note that the large percentage of man caused fires thus far this year were the result of camp fires left unattended. This sort of carelessness is entirely uncalled for. It is just as easy to exert a little care to see that fires are prevented as it is to neglect them. Fortunately we have not experienced a major fire in this area for many years and if continued precautions are used we should be able to avoid them in the future.

Schools Request $38,000 Budget For Next Year

Pay For Teachers Largest Item of Expense At Each School

It will cost $38,150 to operate the two Truckee schools during the 1946-47 fiscal year, it is estimated by the budgets approved by County Superintendent of Schools Walter Carlson. The proposed budgets are published in detail in this week's issue of the Sierra Sun.

Public hearings will be held on the budgets in the two schools on Monday evening, August 5.

The grammar school proposes to spend a total of $19,800 while the total for the high school has been set at $18,350, the grammar school's budget exceeding that of the high school for the first time.

The largest single sum on each budget is for instruction, the elementary school asking $10,800 for this purpose and the high school requesting $12,800. The high school is asking for $1,000 for undistributed reserve appropriation and the grammar school seeks only $200 for the undistributed reserve. The auxiliary services at the grammar school were fixed at $2,700 while at the high school they are set at only $1,000.

Total current district taxes required for the high school budget are $8,009.51, while $13,273 will be required from local taxes for the elementary school.

Value of Snow Survey Data Increased By Studies In Castle Creek Laboratory

by CLYDE J. GORMAN
Chief, Technical Information Branch
Corps of Engineers, Sacramento

Up on California's top side for U. S. Engineers have just worked through the first of what promises to be seven long winters.

Some day, because of their work, men will know more exactly how much water, when, and how fast it will roll into the valley from any Sierra stream. Some day they will get this information from basic weather data and a few simple measurements.

But right now, the Central Sierra Snow Investigation Laboratory in Placer Co., Calif., is purposely over-instrumented. A lot of loose ends on the fringe of present-day knowledge will have to be woven into a reliable pattern. For example, what will happen on the Kings, the Kern, the American or the Feather riversafter a certain number of hours of sunshine and the movement of different types of air masses over the snow fields? A joint venture has been formed of the men of the United States Army Engineers and the Weather Bureau to find out. To use the words of an official report, "Practically nothing is known about the water storage capacity, transmission rate and melting rate of the various types of snow packs in this critical zone."

Snow Fields Reservoirs

For a number of years snow surveys largely conducted by the State, have been carried on. These give a good idea of the amount of snow, and it is a valuable supplement to present studies. However, dams and reservoirs are precision structures, and precise knowledge will get the most out of them. In a sense, the great dams are something like an afterbay to the big snow fields, where a melting zone of some 2,000 ft. migrates up and down the mountains with the seasons. Merrill Bernard, head of the Weather Bureau's hydrology section, puts it this way: "Snow fields in the mountainous West are to be considered vast reservoirs just as truly ar man-made dams."

So one of the first civil jobs at war end found the U. S. Engineers, Sacramento District, rushing to completion a full-fledged laboratory high in the Sierras, between Soda Springs and Donner Summitt, off Highway 40 a bit, in an area called the Castle Creek Basin. This spot was picked because it is fairly typical of the range, it is reasonably accessible, and all the water from 4½ sq. mi. has to drain through one point.

What looks like a nice winter scene, to the scientists on topside is "snow erosion." One hundred mile winds are not uncommon to the high Sierras; and the pack shifts from one watershed to another.

The four mountaineers on whose notes the future design and operation of foothill reservoirs will depend are Dr. Robert W. Gerdel, physicist and head of the laboratory; Ashton Codd, hyrdaulic engineers; Parley Merrill, engineering aide, and Bill Enloe, meterologist. Codd, from the University of Nevada, is handiest on skis. Merril and Enloe, back from Alaskan assignments, think Califoria is balmy here.

Like Submarine

The seasonal snow storage gauge is an important field instrument outside the lab building. Inside its round ank is a solution of calcium chloride hat melts falling snow, so that it is possible to measure snowfall in terms of precipitation. Vanes around the top cause practically the same amount of snow to enter the gauge as falls on the ground. The instrument was designed by Dr. Gerdel.

The inside of the lab looks like the belly of a submarine. All instruments are hooked up to outside stations. Among these are recorders for registering wind velocity, wind direction and duration of sunshine from several outside stations at one-minute intervals. Other instruments include a microbarograph which keeps a permanent record of barometric pressures; micromax recorders that pick up soil, snow and air temperatures from 28 separarte outside points at one-minute intervals in terms of quarter-degree Fahrenheit.

Run-Off Is Traced

A simple but absolutely necessary installation is that which measures run-off. All the melting snow behind t must pass through the weir, unless it slips past underground, in which case three shafts keep tab on the moement of ground water. From this point in Castle Creek Basin, run-off heads for Lake Van Norden and from there down the Yuba River to the Sacramento, and so, unless put to work, out through the San Francisco Golden Gate. Around Fresno, Sierra streams reach the Pacific only in times of high water, and Kings, Kaweah, Tule and Kern rivers normally head for Tulare Lake, which can overflow into San Joaquin River and then out to sea.

Well instrumented, but not as completely as it will be next year, the snow laboratory has contributed a start in solving the silent riddles that affect the lives of people in the valley.

The pay-off instrument is located in the little house in back of the weir. This stage recorder makes continuous record of the depth of the pool behind the weir. The average depth for a 24-hour period can be translated into the exact amount of water that flows out of the basin in any one day.

Rapid Transit

The snowmen go faster and farther in one hour with their snow tractor than they used to go in one day. Built for the Army's arctic campaigns by Allis-Chalmers and powered by a Jeep engine, the snow tractor has a fighting weight of 2,700 bs. The rig is steered like an automobile with skis in front and tracks behind. In a tight spot, the tracks are utilized in steering as in a regular tractor. Spare skis are mounted on the side.

In making the ordinary snow surveys, long tubes are plunged inthe pack to bring up samples. Snow core is checked for quality at different depths from inspection slots on the side. Samples over the basin inform the men of the quantity and kind of snow they have to work with—the first essential information. Next, the tube is weighed on a spring scale to determine its water content.

Hydrologist Codd performs a simple little trick. Vacuum bottles are half full of hot water when leaves the lab. Upon arrival at site, he uncorks the bottle, measures temperatures of water. Then he dumps in a snw sample, stirs until dissolved and measures water temperature again. On his return to the lab he weighs the bottle and contents. Thus he knows how much snow it took to change the temperature of a given quantity of water a certain number of degrees. And so he knows how much heat it took to melt the snow.

Complex Instrument

The pyrheliometer is the prima donna of the laboratory. Its top bulb picks up the amount of solar radiation in terms of calories. The bottom bulb catches the amount reflected back from the snow. The difference is the amount of heat absorbed by the snow. It takes 80 calories of heat to melt one gram of ice or snow at 32 deg. F.

One winter's work has been done, and six more loom ahead for the scientists. If ou know what the weather is, know how much and what kind of snow you have, and know how much water comes down the mountain from this set of conditions, you can in time develop a formula that will work for the whole valley.

Temperatures as high as 130 degrees are not uncommon during the summer in Death Valley National Monument.

Flying Warden Nurses Air Sick Beavers In Move. To New Home

SACRAMENTO— Beavers like humans are subject to air sickness, so reports Al Reese, warden-pilot for the Division of Fish and Game.

Reese reports that on a recent plant of beavers into the inaccessible back country that three of the five beavers he was moving to a new location appeared to be quite affected by their new mode of travel but soon returned to normal after arrival at their home.

The bake shop at San Francisco's old Fort Point was equipped to turn out hot bread in peacetime, red-hot cannon balls in wartime.

State Librarian Reports Increased Interest In California's Centennials

SACRAMENTO, July 25 —(UP)— State Librarian Mabel R. Gillis this week offered the facilities of the state library to persons and groups preparing material for centennial celebrations of early day events in California.

"The calls for information on California life in the 1840's have been heavy and we anticipate the volume will increase still more as the historic events of gold rush years are recalled in modern celebrations," she said.

Perhaps the most important source in the library, according to Miss Caroline Wenzel, supervisor of the California, section is the large collection of state newspapers. In more than 19,000 bound volumes, the library has earliest editions and later numbers of California's oldest news publications.

Included are the Californian, the Alta Californian, the Placer Times, with some issues dated as early as 1846.

Also ndexed in the library is biographical material of California pioneers, authors, artists, musicians, state officials and other prominent citizens.

The library also has specialized in collecting California fiction, dramatic material, pictures, printed indexes to the great registetr of voters of the state, business papers and letters, and diaries of pioneers.

DOWNIEVILLE— Hugh E. Frye, Jr., Post is the name chosen for the local post of American Legion at a recent meeting here when 21 names were signed to the application for a charter. The name was chosen as the most appropriate from among the 12 from Sierra county who lost their lives in World War II.

The Solls are now erecting on their property a winter garage which will adjoin that of their neighbors, the Ray Matchems. While here the Gerkins made a successful fishing expedition up Blackwood Creek, coming home with 20 brook trout.

Schmidt; her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Von Fluee; her cousin, Adolf Vokelman; and her brother-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Finger.

MY PLACE in the SUN

by DOUG BARRETT

Ran into Bill Curran of the Forest Service yesterday in front of Cabona's on his day off. It was sort of a busman's holiday because all during our conversation, Bill kept peering into the ominous sky looking for lightning. We talked of this and that but mainly about ligtning fires in the forest. I've a lot of admiration—and little envy—for the boys of the service. While their main problem is man-caused fires which are more costly but more accessible than lightning fires. In the latter case, lightning is no respecter of location. Usually it hits in a snag, a stump or rotten tree. The forester usually has to pack in, loaded with his fire fighting equipment—no light matter—and remains for as much as three days to control and completely put out the smouldering fire down to the last spark. There are many things we can do to lighten the work of the foresters. Don't throw lighted matches or cigarette, pipe or cigar leavings from your car; be sure that camp fire is always under control and completely out before you leave it; pick up your debris and take it with you or bury it deep. Our forests are our greatest single asset as a community, state and nation. The Forest Service works hard and long to protect and preserve them. Don't be a ninny—do your part—be careful, be conservative.

ALL AROUND TOWN: Mickey Hereford and Harvey Hocker absorbing milk shakes and comic book wisdom at Loynd's fountain....our new jaypee, Dick Little, started off with a busy week earning his official pittance....Supervisor Hank Loehr back from the county seat after taking care of his constituents in the new county budget....the Legion boys are slated to start building their portable Whiskerino hoosegow today....with weekly trips around Truckee and Tahoe City on the agenda....Stell Thomas the only local ight with an umberella during the recent rain....Ackerson's jewelry is really dolled up with its new fixtures

Mrs. Marie Henry observed another birthday on Friday, July 19, but will delay the celebration of the occasion until business at the garage slacks up a bit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Frates and Mr. and Mrs. Don Fraga of San Leandro will houseguests of the M. A. Lopes family at their home in Timberland from July 22 and 29. Mr. and Mrs. Lopes returned on Thursday to Tahoe after a two weeks visit at their home in San Leandro.

Fill Empty Sockets — Put in Right Size Bulbs for Easy Seeing

Tonight, look around at the lighting in your home. If a lamp or lighting fixture seems dim, look at the light globe. If it is darkened with age and use, it is not giving you the light you are paying for and will soon burn out. Then count the empty sockets and the small-size bulbs that were put in temporarily some time ago.

Make a list of the lamp bulbs needed to restore bright, new lighting throughout your home. Take this list with you when you go shopping. You will find the lamp bulb supply is now plentiful. Good lighting is inexpensive. Use plenty of it.

Living Room. Protect your family's eyesight. 150-watt bulb is right size for many reading lamps.

Kitchen. For that overhead light in the kitchen you need at least 150-watts. Be sure you get right size lamp bulbs.

Child's Study Lamp. Young eyes are too precious to risk. Better get a 150-watt bulb for your child's study lamp.

RED CROSS CLASSES PUT ON AQUATIC SHOW AT TAVERN

TAHOE CITY— Several hundred persons witnessed an interesting aquatic program at the Tahoe Tavern pool Sunday, under the direction of Harry Pierson. Participating in the program were Red Cross life saving pupils of Andrew Hardin.

The life saving demonstrations by he ypoung swimmers, ranging in age from 12 to 17, included undressing under water, breaking various grips and improvising water wings from a pair of trousers in deep water. The Red Cross has been conducting classes at Tahoe City and Kings Beach at which large numbers have been taught to swim and to save lives.

The generous response to the Red Cross funds drive in March, which was carried on at the lake by Mrs. Evelyn Bliss, has made the classes possible as well as helping with other Red Cross activity.

The Tavern orchestra furnished the music for the occasion and other interesting events in diving and aquatic drills were arranged by Pierson.

The Red Cross studnest who participated were from Tahoe City, Kings Beach and Auburn. They included Sue Loutzenheimer, Maxine Gordon, Maureen Hallihan, Norman King, Romona Robertson, Ross Presley, Jean Brennan, Bill Husse. Bill Dunievitz, Philip Bartlett, Meridith Hoar, Pat Brennan, Sue Tomer, Bob Welby, Richard Astle, Louise Robertson, Michael Hallinan, Sue Huntley, Shirley Preston, Janet Frances, Ann Stoll, Arthur Ables and Glenn Jacobson.

A demonstration of swimming strokes was given by Mary Myers of Auburn and Miss Ann Stoll of Tahoe City conducted the junir class and also gave a demonstration in saving a victim from the water, carrying her to shore and administering artificial respiration.

Mr. and Mrs. Cross Both Wearing Casts Following Accidents

TAHOE CITY— Mrs. Charles Cross went to Oregon to purchase lumber for the Truckee-Tahoe Lumber Company, a mission she ably accomplished. But when she and Sally Cross went to the beach for recreation, her luck gave out and she came home with a very sore foot. Several bones in it were broken when she moved back to avoid an oncoming breaker and stepped on a piece of driftwood. She's now wearing a walking cast and it will be some time before the foot is back to normal.

Her husband, to prove his sympathy, on Saturday last sustained a broken hand which was caught in a roller on a truck at one of the mills.

Tahoe Letter

From SWANEE

Tahoe City, California.
July 21st, 1946

Dear Tahoeites:

What a warm Sunday this has been, although it didn't quite reach yesterday's peak of 91, which is pretty high for the lofty Sierra. An overcast sky prealled part of today, and the air was decidedly cooler. Heavy showers were reported at some spots on the lake, as the humid air held a foreboding of thunder and rain which failed to visit our district.

Long strings of cars travel our highways daily, with license plates indicating tourists from just about every state in the union, and beyond. If you have any appointments to keep these warm sunny days, be sure to leave home earlier than necessary, as there is no escape from that long stream of traffic once you are engulfed in it. Have seen impatient drivers pass in forbidden paces and, but for the courtesy of oncoming motorists, who more than once took to the shoulder of the road, there would have been tragic consequences. Better to be safe than sorry.

Strangers in our midst these days are enjoying an unusual sight common at Tahoe this time of year. It's our summer "snowstorms" which visit those areas where the graceful cottonwood and lombardis abound. From their trembling branches a veritable shower of small white fluffy tufts disengage themselves and go sailing high into the air, traelling somtimes fr hundreds of yards before settling onto the ground and foliage, leaving white in many places. These are the trees which lend their rich coloring to the glorious autumns that are Tahoe's.

Am happy to learn that one of Tahoe's most popular oldtime residents is making a slow but steady climb back to good health at her home in Homewood. She is Mrs. Henry Droste who spent much of last winter under the doctor's care, but who has improved steadily since arriving at the lake. Could be the aromatic scent of the pines, the sun baths and the rest and quiet of her lakeshore home, and the tender care of her devoted family have all combined to aid her in gaining back lost weight and freedom from nerves and worry. Here's hoping her customary good health will have been completely regained before the end of summer.

Mrs. Elizabeth Walker, my old friend of the Truckee River, returned to her home here on Saturday with John Franklin, who drove her to and from Merritt Hospital in Oakland. Upon her arrival there the doctors voted down an operation which had been believed necessary, and today she is learning with the aid of crutches, the thrill of walking again, just a little at a time. After nine months of being a semi-invalid, she is finding her new experience a decided pleasure.

Son-in-law PFC Bill Steenis returned to Camp Beale on Sunday and learned, much to his delight, that he could receive his discharge who service just as soon as he could prove to the satisfaction of his Uncle Sam that his little son, Bill Jr., had really been born and was still living. Seems all his official records are lost so when this last detail has been settled he will be free to return to civilian life. His brother, Bob, who was to have undergone a serious he d operation Monday last, was given a two weeks furlough home after the specialist, who examined him, refused to operate at that time.

Former Cpl. Eric Druhn, now vacationing in the Sunnyside district, last week received a letter he has long and patiently awaited. It was from his brother in Germany and was written by his father and mother whose fate has been unknown to the Druhns since before the war. Seems they are both living but have been existing upon little food all during the many long months they were in the custody of the Russians after they had fled their own town as war pressed upon them. Eric's niece, his brother's daughter, was killed when she sought to leave her home and another brother has not been heard from in over two years. He is believed a prisoner of the Russians, as no announcement of his death has ever reached the family. An indication of conditions in Germany can be seen in the letter just received, which was written in February of this year by the parents in Germany, to the son who lived in the American zone of Germany. He failed to receive it until June, approximately five months later, and yet it took but four weeks to reach America and the Druhns. The latter have offered the elder Druhns a haven with them in their newly adopted county and, if they accept, bring them out of troubled Germany to a new home where peace and plenty will help to heal the bitter memories of the tragic years gone past.

A visitor at the Homewood summer home on the lakeshore of the Art Sathers of Auburn last week was Mrs. Kathryn Dunn of Auburn. She holds a distinction few parents care to claim, being that city's first Gold Star mother of World War II her son, Gilman, member of the crew of a minesweeper, having been the first from the county seat to lose his life when his ship was bombed to pieces by the Japs while in operation off Guam. Two other sons also served. Melvin, with the army in Germany, who expects to be released soon, and Leland, with the air corps.

Because friend husband suffered a crippled back last week, we set about finding a chiropractor and in so doing met one of Tahoe's newer permanent residents. Our Sierra Sun gave us a line on him as we discovered his ad at a timely moment. He is E. C. Hageman, D. C., who owns and resides at Poco Beach, which in Italian means Little Beach. The doctor is working at idle moments on a sturdy sea wall of heavy rocks and when completed he plans to bring in lots of sand and furnish comfortable lounging equipment, which will make his "little" beach select and cozy despite its size. His office is well equipped and on the ground floor overlooking the lake. He purchased and remodeled the property about ten months ago while here on furlough, coming along just as the owner was hanging a "For Sale" sign out on the highway. He soon took it down, however, as the doctor decided it was just what he was looking for. His hours at present are from 1 to 6 PM and he is available at all times for special appointments. House calls he makes in the mornings. He offers, besides adjustments, massage, physiotherapy, gland therapy and gland vitamins. He comes highly recommended as he was employed to care for directors, stars and employees of Warner Brothers studios at Burbank for 2½ years before entering the service.

While the radioactive waves eased friend husband's back, I drew the following information from the modest doctor. He was released in September from Ft. Devens, Mass., following extensive service with the 451st heavy bombardment group in which he served as an engineer-gunner. He saw service on the Yang Tze river patrol, in the Nicaraguan campaign against Sandino, went to South America for two months as one of President Hoover's bodyguards al of whom were six feet and over, was at Pearl Harbor, served on the USS Idaho for over a ear, made a crash landing at Hawthorne Ammunition Depot when his pilot hit a water tower, tearing the ends of the props off. He also admitted that he had received three Presidential citations, the Bronze Star and the Air Medal, for service at Ploesti, Rumania, when his group knocked out the target in the face of havy flak and enemy fighters.

Incidentally, the doctor has a brother, Louis, just out of service after gathering himself a nice little handful of laurels as pilot of a C46 who flew the China-India "hump" during the war. And friend husband's back? Oh sure, he walked out like a new man with nary a kink or a pain.

Wound up the evening with dinner at Corona's Tahoe Vista Hotel Coffee Shop, where we found the food exceptionally tasty and well cooked. Oliver C. was doing his best to assist in operations under the handicap of a bandaged hand. While cutting meat recently, he slashed his finger and it healted but poisoning set in and a felon developed. It had to be lanced twice and at this writing is on the mend.

Bye for another week and can report light rain falling as we bring this to a close. Good luck, best wishes and happy days ahead to you all. As ever, Swanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Frazier and Mr. and Mrs. James Frazier and daughter Linda too a trip around the lake on Sunday, stopping at the south end to view the parade which preceded the rodeo. They reported huge crowds in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyane Poulsen are vacationing at Tahoe.

Fire at Lake Tahoe Store Is Quickly Controlled

TAHOE CITY— The forest service truck was called to Atherton's Store on Saturday night when a fire for a moment threatened to s t ablaze the building. Investigation revealed a box containing sawdust about 12x18 inches, made to protect a water hydrant, had been scorched when a match had been thrust lighted into the sawdust. The fire ran up the wall but presence of mind of an employee quickly extinguished it before the fire truck arrived.

Mrs. O. E. Peters of Sacramento, sister of Leon Dockham, accompanied by her husband and daughter Ralpha and Mrs. Marjorie Armagost of Sacramento were visitors at the Dockham home in Lake Forest. They are vacationing at Meeks Bay. Other recent guests included Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Armagost and daughter Carol of Sacramento, the latter two remaining on to visit for a week.

Fishing Much Better As Lake Water Warms Up

TAHOE CITY— Fishing continues to improve as local sportsmen report good catches in all directions. One man who seems to know where to find them every time is Waldo Gross of Lake Forest. On Friday of last week he was out with W. M. Burg of Cedar Flat and in less than an hour they had 18 pounds of mackinaw. The three beauties averaged six pounds each. On Saturday Waldo took out L. A. Gunther of Knights Landing, who brought back five mackinaw averaged between two and three pounds each. The same day he piloted G. D. Waters of Tahoe City around the Carnelian Bay shoreline and about a mile out he caught four mackinaw which averaged 2½ to three pounds. It was Water's first fishing trip and he was more than happy at his beginner's luck.

Waldo believes the fishing is better because the water is becoming a little warmer, that three feet of cold snow water which entered the lake at the start of the season putting a damper on good fishing.

Art Sather of Homewood reports catching a nice six pound mackinaw in the vicinity of Sunnyside harbor on Thursday last.

Things can't be too bad when Game Warden Bill LaMarr remarks that more mackinaw have been taken out of Tahoe this year than any previous season during his residence here.

NEW YORK—'Cocktails, 5 to 7 P.M.,' the invitations read, and if you're a columnist, literary or movie critic, feature or fashion editor, you'll go, if you've nothing better to do—just to see the friends you haven't seen since the last cocktail party a day or so ago.

Nobody but the press agents goes to these cocktail clambakes to see the celebrity or the contraption for which they are given. They may be held to introduce or promote a Hollywood cutie, a fountain pen that writes under water, a new novel, hat, wall-paper or coiffure.

But the party givers lay out the dough, from $1,000 on up, for drinks and buffet snacks for a couple of dozen guests or a couple of hundred, at the Waldorf (which hosts about a score a week), at the Stork Club or the Pierre—gladly in the name of publicity or "public relations."

These are outgrowths of the fabulous "literary teas" of prewar which, heralding new books or authors, were neither teas nor literary but semi-public brawls which began at 5 and lasted until the last wowzer was poured into a homebound taxicab a bit before midnight.

Evidently the latter-day versions, expensive as they are, must pay off, for enough of the free-loading magazine and newspaper guests will reciprocate with pieces in print to keep both press agents and sponsors happy. This spurs their competitors to throw bigger and better parties themselves...and so goes the merry, mad whirl—dizzy, if not altogether senseless.

A Strike-Out

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Looking Ahead

WORK stoppages are always bad news. Farmers hate to read about strikes because farms can prosper only when industrial workers are happy with their jobs and setting good tables. Farmers take sides in labor squabbles less than most city people think. Without much prejudice they wish mainly that whoever is on the wrong side of the argument will get right so business may go ahead.

Not many weeks ago, when a world-famous strike ended, I overheard a stranger say, "Strikes just can't go on forever. Finally men have to go back to work, whether they get all they struck for or not." The only trouble with such a philosophy is that it's not so. The fearful truth is that somebody, some day, might call a third strike . . . one you might call a strike-out.

Need Both EVERY big industrial concern is in league with two different kinds of people — both classes out for money, but in different ways. One group is its employees, the other its stockholders. Both alliances are necessary. There's no use wondering which is most important because it is not possible for an industrial organization to get along unless it has both. They are mutually essential.

It is safe to consider these two groups about the same size. Numerically, the country over, one crowd is about as big as the other. Individual companies differ; some have more employees than stockholders, others have more investors than workers. In 1940, the General Motors Corp. had nearly twice as many investors as employees and several other big concerns were so situated.

A Little Overlap QUITE a few employees in certain corporations are stockholders too. They call themselves employees however, because their wages usually amount to more than their dividends. Payrolls have been running 10 to 20 times dividends for years. Generally, a company's stockholders and its employees are two entirely different crowds, and the firm can't manage without either group.

One point of most striking similarity between investors and employees is that they both are independent. Either crowd is free to walk right out and leave a company. Either bunch might strike a firm dead with that very weapon. Usually it's the workers who quit, because they are organized. Likewise, being organized, they can arrange to return to their jobs before it is too late.

Investors are not organized and accordingly don't strike. There's nobody to call a strike. But if strikes of employees kill the profit for investors, and dividends quit coming entirely, investors will finally quit. They will leave one at a time and nobody will tell them to come back. The final strike of employees that drives stockholders to quit, that's the strike that will be called "Out."

Nevada County Highway Budget Up 30 Per Cent

Nevada county's budget of $118,287 for highways and bridges for 1945-46 was 30 per cent more than the $90,852 spent by the county for this purpose for 1941-42, California Taxpayers' Association said this week, making public its study of spending for highways and bridges by California counties.

For 1944-45, the county budgeted $86,100 for highways and bridges but was able to spend only $66,161, the association said.

Over the state as a whole, county highway and bridges budgets totalled $43,909,811 for 1945-46, almost double the $22,778,108 spent in 1941-42. For 1944-45, the counties budgeted $33,267,280 for highways and bridges but spent only $20,817,600.

A large part of the funds which counties spend on roads and bridges comes from the gas tax and motor vehicle license taxes, the association said.

Highway Patrol Checks Show Half of Autos On Road Are Hazards

SACRAMENTO, July 25 —(UP)— Almost half of the cars now operating on California highways have defective equipment, a California highway patrol survey shows.

Chief E. Raymond Cato said that thte patrol examined 111,521 motor vehicles during the recent six weeks highway traffic check sponsored by safety organizations. Of the cars stopped, 47,206 or 42 per cent were operating with defective equipment which made them unsafe, he said.

Cato disclosed that members of the patrol will continue the same check for an indefinite period. All vehicles stopped for a moving violation of traffic laws will be checked for operation of horns, windshield wipers, tires, head and rear lights and brakes.

In the tabulation of defective equipment, it was found that defective tail lights led the list with headlights second and inadequate brakes third.

"The results of this check emphasize the need for careful driving by all bcause so many vehicles are being operated in an unsafe condition likely to cause an accident," Cato said.

"The average car on our highway is now more than eight years old. Many are being operated with prewar tires that have been recapped several times.

"Inasmuch as it is likely to be a long time before new cars are available in appreciable quantities, the wise motorist will take his car into a good garage periodically so that it may be kept in first class repair."

The first name given by the English to a place in America was Virginia.
